

Seakeeper expands global sales team

Published: 04/19/2014

Seakeeper hired Giorgio Avigdor to the new position of regional sales manager for southern Europe. Phil Bourque is now responsible for global management of Seakeeper's largest OEM accounts.

Based in Genoa, Italy, Avigdor is responsible for sales development and management throughout the region.

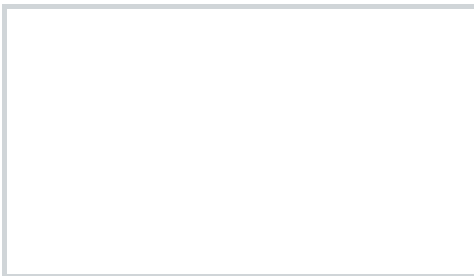

"Seakeeper is a young and dynamic company. We have many exciting opportunities for growth, both with OEMs and in refit projects," Avigdor said. He was most recently national sales manager for Ultraflex, a global manufacturer and distributor of leisure boat accessories and equipment.

Bourque currently serves as Seakeeper regional sales manager for EMEA.

"Seakeeper has become the industry's leading name for gyro stabilizers, largely due to our education efforts in the global market. My new challenge is to nurture partnerships with serial production builders and transform Seakeeper into standard equipment worldwide," Bourque said.

For more information visit www.seakeeper.com.

Deck
Engine

REVIEWS

Be the first to review this item!

COMMENTS